VidCon Adventures!

This month we trekked to the Anaheim Convention Center for the 10th anniversary of Vidcon, which is a huge annual gathering of creators, companies, and fans of all types of internet video content. Scott and the Grossman Law Firm's new Multimedia Producer, Patrick, had Industry passes, and they went to all kinds of sessions about creating high quality video content. Scott also took some time out to join me at the Nickelodeon arcade, where old school video games like Frogger, Galaga, and Ms PacMan were available to play for free.

Jane brought a friend along to Vidcon, and they went to lots of sessions with their favorite YouTubers, including a basketball game featuring the Vlog Squad. Jane spent five hours angling to get this picture with her favorite member of the group, David Dobrik. Many of the most popular YouTubers were surrounded by burly bodyguards, so Jane's five-hour plan involved skirting the security.

While we were away in Anaheim, Mo spent some time at Cool Dog Ranch, where the owners were kind enough to send us pictures of him looking very happy. Summer is flying by, and Vidcon 2019 will definitely stand out as a high point.--

Meet Patrick Anthony

We are very excited to welcome the newest member of The Grossman Law Firm, APC. Patrick Anthony is now our multimedia producer and the newest member of The Grossman Law Firm, APC team.

Patrick first joined the firm in 2018 as a Marketing Intern, he showed great talent and interest and over time transitioned to become our part-time Videographer while finishing his degree.

He is now our full time Multimedia Producer after graduating this June. Patrick has been fascinated with digital content and the process of creating videos and podcasts since he was young. He enjoys learning more about using social media to help people find our site and the answers to their questions and creating videos and podcasts to help them through the situations they face.

Patrick also has the awesome job of doing video testimonials with any of our clients willing to sit down on camera and share their experience with us. Having the opportunity to talk with our clients and help them share their experience is an extremely rewarding part of Patrick's job.

We hope you all join us in welcoming Patrick to the team and take any opportunity you have to talk with him, and let him know you enjoy the wonderful videos he helps us to make that answer questions people have and share information about Probate and Trust Litigation.

Thank you to Our Intern Catherine Nguyen

Catherine Nguyen finished her internship with the Grossman Law Firm, APC a few months ago and we wanted to make sure we took a moment to thank her for all her hard work at The Grossman Law Firm. We wish her the very best. She is a Poli-Sci Major at UCR, who graduated in June and is going into paralegal studies soon. We are sure she is going to go on to have a wonderful career. Thank you again Cat! Congratulations on graduating! We hope you keep us up to date as your career unfolds!

Pencil Wafer Cookies for Back to School

The full directions can be found here

Sugar Wafer Pencil Cookies & Dipping Station Must Haves:

- Baking Sheet (I like to use a half-sheet jelly roll pan when I have lots to dip.)
- Parchment Paper (a non-stick silicon baking mat would also work)
- White candy melts
- Pink candy melts

Line a baking sheet with parchment paper and put containers of melted candy melts, sprinkles, chocolate chips, etc. within easy reach for easy dipping (or in this case, spread – more on that in a second) and easily decorate whatever is being dipped. It gets messy and drippy but that parchment paper makes clean up so much easier!

RISKS WHEN CO-TRUSTEES WILL NOT COOPERATE

When co-trustees will not cooperate, the San Diego probate court can intervene and remove one or both of the trustees. This is clearly an action that requires the guidance of a knowledgeable probate litigation attorney in California. Since there are many risks when co-trustees will not cooperate, it is important not to delay in taking action.

Examples of the harm that can result include the following:

1. First of all, the assets of the trust may be mismanaged if the co-trustees will not cooperate. This can include not agreeing with who is responsible for which tasks, or they may be neglected entirely.
2. Furthermore, the accounting of the trust may be inaccurate or delayed as a result of the inability of the co-trustees to work together.
3. Beneficiaries may have to wait longer to receive their inheritance than was intended under the terms of the trust.
4. Trust assets may be wasted if the duties of trust administration are not carried out as efficiently as they could be if co-trustees work well together.
5. Communication between the co-trustees and beneficiaries may be harmed when the co-trustees will not cooperate.

In conclusion, time is truly of the essence when it comes to seeking help from the probate court in San Diego because your inheritance may be at stake. For more information about pursuing a trust litigation matter in California, contact an experienced San Diego probate court litigation attorney with The Grossman Law Firm.
